I believe there's a high probability...

Lina is USNA Star's
"Angle Sirius".

and the original mission is something else.

Perhaps
the spy
mission is unintentional.

From what we've observed
so far, Lina's abilities do not seem fit for intelligence.

What on earth could be the reason?

The UGMA is even deploying Sirius outside the country...

No clue...

But I don't think it's necessary for us to think about that for the moment.

Since this lets you compete with your full power...

Yes, Chis-some

This rivalry will help raise your power beyond your current levels.

You and the water brilliant rivals

I won't be afraid,
even if my opponent is Silvia.

As long as Onii-sama
stays by my side,

Yeah,
just now...

Sylvia... do we have guests?

Welcome
back, Lina.

Is that so...

Is it the same for you, trying to infiltrate the Magic University?

Sorry...

Nothing worth mentioning here either...

Looking through the public databases again,

Nothing new has been found.

Today,

Tatsuya asked "Isn't the go-to nickname for Angelina... Angle?"

Isn't the go-to nickname for Angelina...

It's not something...

"Angle"?

I was really afraid my identity had been exposed.

How about you, Lina?

Did you get to know your targets a little better?

I think I got closer to them, but...

But what?

I really don't know myself...

Isn't it just a coincidence?

He's just a highschool student.

No,

I know it.
I'm not suited
for infiltration missions.

Tateuya
Shiro!!

Even if he suspected something, he doesn't have any evidence.

He can't seriously suspect that I'm Sirius.

on a walk around the campus?

Take Lina...

Could you take her along?

Shikida-san wants to see things like the autonomy
of Japan's Magic High School
students.

Since Shiba
-kan is on duty today,

Second Year
Public Morals Committee Chairman

Chiyoeda Kanon

Following the computer teacher with him is definitely going to open back to school later.

It's already too late with their Public Morale Committee members...

Just a hint to add...

It's already late...

Ugh...

Ugh, yes. That's right!

At least she's able to adjust her stance to the situation.

That's why I wanted to research how students of this school participated in activities like this.

That question was a bit more subtle.

Maybe things like that are a bit too much to ask from a first-year student.

Didn't your school have a similar system to ours?

Eh?

Is there something wrong?

Her quick-wittedness may even be better than my sister.

Isn't that right?

Second course students are nothing more than a step below the superior first course students.

Takuya is a replace-

Miyuki was very displeased during the instruction.

I thought so, since everyone's uniform was different in class A.

She guessed why the uniform is different.

Second course students.

It's hard to understand.

Takuya,
why are you—

pretending to be a second course
student?

But some time ago
I heard from Kanon,

that Takuya
is one of the most powerful people in
First High.

I really am a second course
student.

I'm not pretending.

I support
such views
myself.

But the outcome
of actual combat is not determined by those.

The three areas of examination
are "speed",
"area of effect"
and "strength".

Practical
score and combat ability
are two different things, huh?

So, in short, I'm a second course student when you look at results.

I just happen to be strong in actual fights.

Ku

Jeez,
that hurt.

I hope there aren't any bruises...

Well,
nothing?
Precise
force adjudiment?

This posture is kind of embarrassing...

Physically,
it didn't have the strength
to wound.

You would've
only settled
a phantom pain from the gun poking you
at most.

You just tried to open up a hole in the face of another.

I think a little pain
is deserved.

Please
forgive my rudeness.

Takaya-
sama.

That is still a sufficient reason for rough treatment.

I understand!

Reo,
I get it!

...what is it?

I've had tea with the President of the USNA.

Rude.

Line's conduct doesn't look that refined...

What do
you mean?
What about me, I'm not refined!

Your
personality is different.

I guess she didn't receive any espionage
training...

...Did
I mess
up?

You explode
on your own in peculiar situations.

OH?

Nobody but the absolute best can meet with the President directly.

More
curiosity.

...I just wanted to see your abilities
for myself.

So,

what was your little show about?

Oh well, that's enough.

Curiosity, huh?

A terrible
guy...

You're
...

Skitbrya

We rented the master's room.

BAR

We use it frequently ourselves.

However,
our traces should have been erased.

Yeah, that would sure bring some respon-
sibility.

The police out at night in Silbury's would draw looks of envy.

No. We used our presence to avoid medi-an's trouble.

Disturbing to many people it's a disaster
for sure.

Were you guys perhaps telling someone?

Even though I look like this way, I have confidence
in my sense of smell!

Don't worry!

I have absolutely no intention of poking
my nose
into danger.

But Inspector,
it's always at night. Having cops prowling
about won't go well.

Well,
true as that may be...

Will do.

Well, ok.
If you find anything,
email me.

Lina,
please
wake up!

From Ben?!

It's an urgent call from Major Canopus.

Shel, is something the matter?

Lina

Ben, thank you for waiting!

Pardon me for using voice only!

Don't mind it. Tell me what the situation is.

I should be the one saying that, disturbing your sleep.

High Commander.

SOUND ONLY

What's his location?

He's dead.
But there are still seven USNA deserters on the loose.

It's about the other day, our deserter. We pinpointed
his location.

I located him today in Dallas.

Japan.

He is currently thought to be hiding
in Tokyo.

He will be arriving in Yokohama.

I will be conveying orders from General Staff
Headquarters.

High
Commander.

SOUND ONLY

Major Angle
'Sirius' current mission is now
of secondary priority.

Tracking down
the fugitives
is now your primary objective.

And
then... boom

Fugitives...

Tracking
down...

Ben

Disposal.

I said
'Roger
That'.
